

RESILIENT BECOMES FIRST ORANGE PARTNER WITH THE LAUNCH OF SMARTNUMBERS TO THE HEALTHCARE SECTOR

25th July: Today, Resilient Networks plc announced its partnership with Orange and the launch of Orange smartnumbers to the healthcare sector. This is the first such partner service to be launched by Orange in the UK and the first healthcare specific service from a mobile operator aimed at improving patient care and increasing internal efficiency through cutting the time it takes to contact healthcare professionals familiar with the case.

The launch signifies the operator's first activity in the UK healthcare industry, and the first service of its kind here by any mobile operator. Orange has had a dedicated healthcare division in Europe for four years, and has a ten-year legacy in the healthcare sector. Recognising the huge potential for mobile communications to improve efficiencies for healthcare professionals, and ultimately patient care, Orange is building on its experience by offering smartnumbers to improve how the UK communicates with its healthcare professionals.

"Resilient is an established, trusted, partner for communications providers. This partnership further demonstrates this. Working with Orange during these difficult economic times presents a perfect opportunity for us to demonstrate that value for money, efficiency savings, and improved service can all be achieved through more joined-up communications that accelerate change." commented Geoffrey Paterson, CEO, Resilient Networks plc.
